1. In Kurdzhali there are three military barracks; the first is located approximately 800 meters east of the railroad station and about 200 meters north of the railroad tracks. The Kurdzhali-Dobrovolets road passes through this area. The barracks area is 250x80-100 meters in size and completely surrounded by a barbed wire fence. There are four or five buildings in this area, two of which are three-storyed, unplastered buildings, 30-35x40-50 meters in size. These buildings are covered with red tiles. The remaining two or three buildings are one-story, unplastered structures, 80x10x15 meters in size. [REDACTED] this barracks area was built in 1953. [REDACTED] seven or eight small guns with thin barrels in this area, [REDACTED] These guns probably belonged to a light antiaircraft battery or an anti-armor unit. No further details are known. 25X1
2. The second military barracks is located approximately 600 meters west of the railroad station on the north side of the road between the town of Kurdzhali and the Kurdzhali railroad station. The size of this area is 500x500 meters and is encircled by barbed wire. The barracks buildings are very old; there are five or six long one-story brick buildings. [REDACTED] horses and trucks in this area. 25X1
3. The third barracks area is located within the angle formed by the Arda river and the Kurdzhali-Sredinka road. This is an old barracks area, 200x80 meters in size and encircled by barbed wire. There are 10 to 12 buildings which vary from one to three stories in height. No other information is known. 25X1
